

Hobley, C. W. Native Beliefs and Magic, With Particular Reference to the Kikuyu and Kamba Tribes of Kenya Colony; Together with some Reflections on East Africa after the War. London: H. F. & G. Witherby Ltd., 1934.

Pp. 348; index; 11 plates.

Tale: NA005 B2 922b

[This source, by a British Administrator with long experience in East Africa, deals primarily with native religion, magic and law. The book is difficult to use because the author deals with Kamba and Kikuyu institutions at the same time and without distinguishing between the two. Although the source contains valuable information, it has not been processed because of the confusion between the two tribes treated. --Analyst]

Becher, Leonard J. The Stories of the Eklupe. Africa: Journal of the International Institute of African Languages and Cultures, Vol. 21, No. 1, pp. 68-87. London: International Institute of African Languages and Cultures, 1958.

File: 842.18.11

[This brief article is a discussion of the different types of Eklupe stories. The author gives examples of various myths, legends, folktales, and stories of supernatural beings in English translation. Similar stories are found in cultures that have been processed for the Eklupe file. --Anahya]